SCI RAILDATA

Up-to-date industry information

Knowledge is (market) power – particularly in the international rail industry. With SCI RAILDATA, SCI Verkehr has built up a comprehensive knowledge database since 1997. It already comprises more than 130,000 German and 65,000 English news articles and tenders relevant to the worldwide railway sector. On a daily basis, a qualified editorial team consisting of international market experts analyses press releases and business reports as well as trade journals and the daily press in order to summarise the important information on companies, technologies, and projects from the railway markets in brief.

SCI RAILDATA is the key to success for the consulting business of SCI Verkehr GmbH. You may benefit as well from this comprehensive knowledge.

- Receive an exclusive access to the SCI RAILDATA online database. Find out about current and past news by using the convenient full text search function. All articles refer to the precise source.
- Read the weekly newsletter with the latest information from the railway markets around the world, including current tenders.

Simple administration

With your order, you define the number of user accounts which will be administered by you through an easy to use online tool. Here you can make changes and expand your subscription at any time. Furthermore, every recipient may select between German and English for his or her account.
